

If You're Looking For Magic

words & music by John Dandrea

If you're looking for Magic,
if it's gone from your eyes if you're losing perspective, my friend well, try some of mine cause it don't really matter at all at least at this point in time you've got a long road ahead of you so hold onto your mind. . . .

try living a simple life, try living for your dreams try looking for happiness, it's not as hard as it all seems. . . .

Seems like I've told you before such a long time ago you can't really change their minds so just let it go if clouds cover your mem'ry and your heart's feeling blue take a look on the brighter side try another point of view. . . .

try living a simple life, try living for your dreams
try looking for happiness, it's not as hard as it all seems. . . .

If you're looking for Magic
if your world has grown cold and you feel like you're so confused and you're growing old well, take a look right in front of you I'm not far away and as the colors flash in your eyes hear the magic I play. . . .

(c) 1979 by John Dandrea