

An Empty Tomb

words & music by John Dandrea

Once upon a hill, when the sky turned dark and still Jesus gave His life so we could live laid within a tomb, days within that cold, dark room
no one saw Him rise, in victory

And when they looked inside,
waiting for them was an angel in white
"He's not here, He is risen!
come and look around this empty room
Jesus Christ, He is risen!
all you see here is an empty tomb.
Go to Gallilee - you will see Him there."
Come, and follow me - you will see Him there.

Once in my own time, my life had ended, I was blind
I cried out "save me, Lord!" You raised me up - turned my life around, set my feet on solid ground as years go by me now, I see Your empty tomb

And when they looked inside,
waiting for them was an angel in white
"He's not here, He is risen!
come and look around this empty room
Jesus Christ, He is risen!
all you see here is an empty tomb.
Go to Gallilee - you will see Him there."
Come, and follow me - you will see Him there.
